

CultureHouse

A pop-up community space

We are

A living room for the community

Like a living room, CultureHouse is a place where all should feel comfortable to hang out with no requirement to purchase anything.

An urban design test kitchen

Employing DIY and tactical urbanism methods, we create a low-friction environment to test out new urban design ideas that can be adapted and built on.

A third space

CultureHouse is a third space between home and work to hang out, meet people, create, share skills, and learn.

An indoor public park

As a cultural institution, CultureHouse brings the vibrancy of a public park inside to make it a year-round occurrence.

A host for regular programming

We host regular programming in partnership with local individuals and organizations that meet the needs and wants of the community.

Our work

Indoor pop-ups

We activate vacant storefronts and transform them into community spaces where we host regular programming with community partners. They are places to hang out, meet someone, or just get some work done.

Outdoor pop-ups

We pop-up in outdoor spaces like public parks and plazas. With our trampolines and living room set-up, we activate unused public space and provide places to gather at street fairs and events.

Design and build

Using open source digital fabrication methods, we design and build elements that foster community.

Adaptation

We work to empower others to create indoor public spaces in their own communities. We can help you bring a CultureHouse pop-up to your city or town.
